FLOURISH (Ruffles and Flourishes) (Service Call) Brief fanfare used in rendering honors to a designated person. Earliest reference is found in the 1874 U.S. Army Infantry manual (Upton Manual). A measure and a half played for rendering honors to a designated person. The number of flourishes depends on the rank of the individual as prescribed by regulations. Four flourishes is the highest honor one can receive. Flourishes are usually accompanied by Ruffles (a roll) on the drum. However, Flourishes can be sounded alone. Military members will render a hand salute.
